The Ohio penitentiary contains 1,364 convicts.

The snow at Holland, Mich., is twenty inches deep.

The epizootic has broken out among the horses at Columbus, O.

Washington Territory has passed a law granting woman suffrage.

Nashville is to have a permanent exposition with a capital of $300,000.

Hall's Safe and Lock Company is to be removed from Cincinnati to Hamilton, Ohio.

SENATOR BECK is at Washington. He is very confident Mr. Carlisle will be elected Speaker and does not think Mr. Randall will be seriously considered in the contest.

Hogs pulled the plug out of a barrel of sorghum in front of W. H. Bagley's store, last Sunday, and treated themselves to all the sweetness therein except some ten gallons. Asland Independent.

Nothing extraordinary in that. If they had been Maysville hogs they would have taken all the molasses, carried off the barrel, and called around early next morning for another one.

STORY'S marble statue of Chief Justice Marshall, for which members of the Philadelphia Bar contributed $20,000, and Congress appropriated a similar sum, is expected to reach Washington early next month. It will be placed somewhere in the Capitol grounds.

A St. Paul telegram says: "Advice from all parts of the northwest show the thermometer ranging from 15° to 40° below zero. A strong wind is blowing but no snow. All trains delayed on account of the wind. Navigation was practically suspended here for several days. The river has closed."

AN exchange says: "The practice of dressing boys in short pants, in obedience to fashion, and little girls in short skirts may be included) is a fruitful source of disease. Their legs get cold, driving the blood to the head, and leaving the little fellows easy victims to diphtheria and other diseases of the throat and lungs."

THE Presidents of a number of leading banks have just given to the public their views on the subject of a bankruptcy law. Without exception they all agree to a national law of bankruptcy of some kind is necessary to the commercial welfare of the community. This opinion appears to be well nigh universal among trade organizations and business men.

THE process of depopulation in Ireland goes steadily forward. The loss from death and emigration greatly exceeds the births. The decrease for the year 1882, according to the report of Registrar-General, was 58,988. As if this were not enough the British Government proposes to further "assist emigration" this year to the extent of 200,000 souls. They are to be mainly consigned to Canada, and the Canadian journals have commenced to protest.

THE Philadelphia Times says: The statisticians who are anxiously figuring on the possible surplus revenue should bring their mathematical genius to bear on the members of Congress by a recommendation to repeal all internal taxes. That would solve the surplus question and dismiss several thousand office-holders to the peaceful pursuits of private life besides. That there is too much money collected in the way of taxes and duties is apparent to everybody. Abolishing the internal revenue taxes doesn't involve any fine figure work on the part of anybody and it would reduce the revenues to a point where the surplus would not bother anybody and where the river and harbor and public building statesmen would have no plausible excuse for pushing their questionable schemes. The remedy for too much money is so simple that it doesn't require much of a mathematician to find it out.

Read Your Policies.

A suit has been decided by the Supreme Court of Georgia that has set the inhabitants of that State very generally to overhauling their life insurance policies. A citizen of Macon twelve years ago took out what he understood to be a ten-year endowment policy in a southern company. During this interval he had been stinting himself to pay (presumably into the hands of an untrustworthy agent) an extraordinary premium, only to find at last that he had an ordinary life policy and to be told by the court that ordinary diligence would have enabled him, at any time, to have ascertained that fact. This is a warning to people in all quarters to read their insurance policies. Insurance agents, sometimes, may not be worthy of trust, when the companies they represent are. Besides, it is likely that a good many policies, if they were read before they were signed, would never be taken out at all. Some of them are fearfully and wonderfully worded.

NEIGHBORING COUNTIES.

BRACKEN.

The Bridgeville correspondent of the Chronicle says: Alfred McCord found a very fine specimen of Indian pistol on his father's farm last week. From the many graves and curiosities found around this place, one would think this was once the abiding place of a large number of Indians.

Married, at Augusta, Mr. Charles Blades and Miss Maggie Nuding.

Chronicle: In a single day's hunt H. C. Litter and J. R. Wilson, of Augusta killed eighty birds.

FLEMING.

Times: Joseph Sticker killed a bald eagle that measured seven feet from tip to tip of wings. It had just killed one of its turkeys, and was making a meal of it.

Times: Two months ago C. M. Lee bought his mother's farm, paying $5,000 for it, and last week he sold the same farm to James Jones for $8,000. Who will say that Fleming county land is not advancing.

BROWN COUNTY, OHIO.

See and Times: Leo Loker has removed with his family to Huntington, W. Va. See and Times: Constable Smithson arrested Wm. Swisher, charged with robbing Thomas Griffith, on Eagle Creek, last March, but Swisher made his escape from the station house at Ripley. He is supposed to have been in the Kentucky penitentiary.

The slander suit of Lucinda S. Meloin against Samuel Pardua was decided in favor of the plaintiff, who got a verdict of $300.

For and About Women.

Miss Hattie Crocker, who is accompanying Lord and Lady Waterlow on their journey round the world, is an heiress to $400,000,000.

Miss Van Zandt is said to have led a romantic career in her early days among the Indians of Texas, but an unimaginative uncle says she never saw an Indian, except the wooden ones guarding the tobacco fastness in her native city of Brooklyn.

During the late Senator Randolph's term in the Senate he gave all his salary to charitable and benevolent purposes. The money was distributed principally by his wife and daughters, who had it as they saw best for the benefit of others.

Miss Anderson is not likely to be readily forgotten in England. Twenty-five thousand of her photographs, taken since her arrival in England, have been sold, and Mr. Van der Weyde, to whom alone she has sold, has prepared a photograph of heroic size of "the Grecian maiden." This measures eight feet by three, carbon, and is therefore permanent. This enlargement, on the greatest scale ever taken, is remarkable for perfection of the half-tones and purity of the light.

The London World says: "The statement that Mrs. Mackey, the wife of the bonanza silver king, was the largest bidder for the Porter Rhodes diamond, is without foundation. Mr. Porter Rhodes went to show the diamond to Mrs. Mackey, but nothing transpired as to possible purchase, although the lady in question likes handsome jewelry. Even to the wife of the millionaire, Mr. Mackey the purchase of a gem costing $200,000 requires reflection and consultation with her lord and master, who is at the present moment in 'the States.'"

According to the London World the eldest son of a well-known Roman Catholic peer, is smitten with the charms of Miss Eva Mackay. In this case, however, it is not so much the money as the young lady herself who is charming, but who at the present moment seems more inclined to become a nun than a wife, though the suitor is the heir apparent to a peerage. The young gentleman in question has recently left Paris for a tour in America, whither he has gone to gain the necessary courage for going through the fearful ordeal of asking mamma. The question, at the present moment among the gossips of society in Paris is, will Miss Eva Mackay choose a prospective English coronet or the veil of a Sacre Cour nun?

do
you
see
this great big boot,
belonging to an ugly
brute? It weighs a ton or more, I guess;
it gave me one parting caress. I loved
a damsel; she was fair as sunshine in the autumn air. One evening I did gladly
whirl into the do-
mine of my girl. We talked of love, I called her dove; we
made down to the gate to spoon, beneath the gleam of harvest moon. I pressed a kiss upon her lip. It was so sweet I gave another kiss. Oh! then he came, the owner of this boot
the same. I felt a pressure sore and quick, so sudden that it made me sick. Ten feet into the air I flew, and dropped into the horse-pond too. I lay there with all my might
and main I never would make love, never again, unto a maid
whose foot it
weighed at least a ton.

Fasting for Science and Religion.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Joseph R. Dresser, the Elizabeth, N. J., faster, says he is making the attempt in the interest of science and to prove his faith in God, whom he had promised not to eat anything for forty days. He claims to have fasted for twenty-one days at his home in Belgium. He says he goes to the church every morning. He smokes three or four times a day and rinses his mouth out with a little water. He says he will prolong his fast as long as possible, but will not endanger his life.
